SQUARE FOOTAGE MATTERS

Remember the joy of building with Tinkertoys or Lincoln Logs? As a child, David Goff didn't just stack pieces with these classic childhood toys—he combined them, crafting imaginative structures that pushed the limits of design. Long before he became an architect, he was already shaping the future, one tiny beam at a time. That passion soon evolved into a love for floor plans.

"I've been doing floor plans since I was a kid," David recalls. "When I was 10 or 11, I measured my own house and created a floor plan on rolled paper." It was a glimpse into his future career.

From Childhood Passion to Professional Expertise

David's path was clear early on. Growing up in Indiana, he always knew he wanted to be an architect. His love for design led him to the University of Arizona in Tucson, where he earned his Bachelor's degree in Architecture. After graduating, he remained in Tucson, drawn to its pleasant climate and vibrant architectural scene. Over the years, he worked on a variety of projects, from historic preservation to city infrastructure, even designing numerous car washes in Tucson and Phoenix.

The Birth of Floor Plans First!

After years in architecture, David sought a new challenge. In 1999, he founded Floor Plans First! LLC, a company dedicated exclusively to creating accurate, professional floor plans for real estate marketing. Unlike traditional architects who design new buildings, David and his team focus on measuring existing properties and providing high-quality floor plans that help real estate agents market their listings.

"In the late '90s and early 2000s, computers changed everything," David explains. "Before that, we had to draw with T-squares and triangles, shrink the plans, roll into a typewriter and type labels. Now, technology allows us to work faster and more efficiently, making floor plans an essential marketing tool for real estate professionals."

The Value of Accurate Floor Plans

For many agents, a floor plan is more than just a visual aid—it's a crucial marketing asset. Floor Plans First! provides detailed, professional floor plans formatted for 8.5 x 11-inch prints, ideal for listing presentations and open houses.

"One of the biggest reasons agents use our service is to verify square footage," David notes. "County assessor records are often inaccurate due to remodeling or outdated information. On average, we find discrepancies of about 130 square feet per home, which can significantly impact a property's value."

The company's impact is impressive. To date, they have measured over 1.4 million square feet in Tucson alone. With an average real estate value of $300 per square foot, that equates to over $320 million in verified property value. In Phoenix, they have found 155,000 square feet in discrepancies, equaling an additional $46.6 million in real estate value.

Beyond traditional floor plans, Floor Plans First! offers innovative online tools. Their website features interactive floor plans where users can drag and drop furniture, view real MLS listing photos linked to specific rooms, and save customized layouts.

"Our patented system ensures that property scale matches the floor plan accurately," David says. This makes it easy for potential buyers to visualize a space without guessing dimensions.

Expanding Beyond Tucson

While Tucson remains the company's home base, Floor Plans First! has expanded its services to

“OUR PATENTED SYSTEM ENSURES THAT PROPERTY SCALE MATCHES THE FLOOR PLAN ACCURATELY.”

Phoenix and, more recently, San Diego. Their work extends beyond residential homes to commercial properties, including medical buildings, warehouses, retail, and office complexes.

“We work with shopping center owners, measuring vacant spaces and creating detailed layouts to attract tenants,” David explains. “We also measure medical offices, warehouses, and retail —anywhere accurate floor plans are needed.”

The Art and Science of Measuring

Every property presents a unique challenge. Some homes have complex angles, curved walls, or unusual layouts. “Measuring a house is like solving a giant jigsaw puzzle,” David explains. “You have to figure out how everything fits together.”

One of the most memorable properties David worked on was the Ramada House, designed by renowned architect Judith Chafee. This modern concrete brutalist home, inspired by indigenous American architecture, presented a fascinating measuring challenge due to its intricate structural design.

Trusted by Top Real Estate Agents

Floor Plans First! has become a go-to resource for real estate professionals. Many top agents use their services for every listing, knowing that accurate square footage can add value to a home.

“In real estate, square footage is a legal opinion,” David explains. “Buildings are made of different materials, and measurements can vary. We measure down to the inch, providing the most precise data possible.”

With over 26 years in business, David and his team continue to refine their process, offering real estate professionals a reliable, effective way to market properties. From childhood Tinkertoy creations to cutting-edge floor plan solutions, David Goff has turned a lifelong passion into a thriving business that helps agents and homeowners alike.

PHOTOGRAPHY BY JACQUELYNN BUCK
WRITTEN BY JESS WELLAR

“When my mom passed away unexpectedly in 2018, it made me take a hard look at my life,” Lucy Robinson begins. “I had spent years as a dental assistant but felt unfulfilled. I had always dreamed of working for myself, and after buying four homes, my passion for real estate kept growing.

“Losing my mom was a wake-up call; life is short, and I knew it was time to pursue what truly made me happy. That’s when I took the leap into real estate, and I’ve never looked back.”

For Lucy, that defining moment came at the dawn of 2020; since then, she has emerged as a rising force, closing nearly $12 million in sales with 28 transactions last year, an impressive accomplishment for someone who had only recently branched out on her own. But Lucy will be the first to tell you that her success has less to do with sales tactics and more to do with her mindset.

Mental Transformation

A Tucson native, Lucy worked as a dental assistant for 14 years, a career that taught her unending patience, compassion, and the value of educating clients. But deep down, she knew something was missing. After her mom’s unexpected passing prompted serious reflection, she obtained her license and joined a real estate team at a small brokerage just before COVID upended daily life. Looking back, she describes that decision as the best one she’s ever made.

“I hit the ground running,” she smiles. “The first month I had three people in escrow, and I just kept going. It felt like a natural fit.” Like many new agents, she quickly realized that setbacks and rejections are part of the business. But instead of letting those obstacles derail her, Lucy embraced a new mentality, one that’s fueled her growth ever since.

“Mindset is everything,” Lucy affirms. “I had to completely change how I thought after realizing a tendency towards a negativity bias. When people hung up on me during cold calls or if I hit a wall with a client, I had to reframe it as a blessing and an opportunity to learn and improve. Every ‘no’ became a lesson.”

That mindset shift didn’t just stay in her professional life either; it completely transformed her personal outlook as well. “Now when I face hardship, I look at it from a different perspective,” she continues. “I listen to a lot of self-help audiobooks and podcasts when I’m driving to silence negative internal dialogue. Journaling and meditation have also become part of my daily routine, as well as a solid spiritual practice. It’s all about controlling the way I respond to challenges.”

From Rookie to Rising Star

Starting her real estate career on a team gave Lucy invaluable experience, but when she joined Coldwell Banker Realty as a solo agent in January 2024, she knew she was ready to build something on her own terms. “I remember walking into the office and seeing a board of the top 10 leaders,” Lucy recalls. “I told myself, I’m going to be up there one day.”

By the end of last year, she had surpassed her own expectations, ranking in the top three out of more than 100 agents in her office. “It felt incredible to achieve that milestone,” she acknowledges humbly. “I had set that goal thinking it would take years, so to reach it in my first year as a solo agent was surreal.”

Ask Lucy what drives her, and her answer is simple: family. “My kids are my biggest inspiration,” she shares with a smile. “They remind me why I push through even the toughest days.”

That same motivation extends to her clients, who quickly learn that Lucy is someone who shows up. “I always lead with my heart,” she emphasizes. “I truly care about my clients, and their goals become my own. Whether it’s negotiating the best deal, finding creative solutions, or guiding them through challenges, I don't stop until I get results."

Family First

Off the clock, Lucy's busy soaking up quality time with her brood. She and her husband, Joey, have three wonderful children—Calum, Isabella, and Lyla—and their dachshund, Moana, is the family's "little ray of sunshine."

Lucy certainly knows how to stay balanced and unwind after a busy day. She's deeply committed to fitness and maintains a disciplined workout routine. "I go to OrangeTheory four days a week at 5 a.m.," she notes. "It's been my sanity saver, and no matter how busy life gets, I stick to that routine because it keeps me feeling strong and focused."

She also loves any opportunity to dance to Mexican cumbia music, something she's enjoyed since childhood. Her passion for wellness extends to her kitchen as well. "I'm a good cook," she smiles. "I love putting a healthy spin on any dish... except at Christmas when I make tamales for everyone!"

On The Horizon

As she continues to thrive in her fledgling career, Lucy is setting her sights on new goals, including building her own boutique real estate team of strong women that reflect her passion for the industry within the next few years. But Lucy isn't stopping there. She's also passionate about investing in real estate and plans to build a portfolio of investment properties. "Real estate has transformed me, pushing me to grow and strive for more; and I want to mentor others along the way," she concludes.

"Everything happens for a reason, and each experience is here to teach us a valuable lesson—that with the right mindset, anything is possible."

"I quickly realized that setbacks and rejections are part of the business. But instead of letting those obstacles derail me, I embraced a new mentality, one that's fueled my growth ever since."

Family is everything—and the reason I help others find the perfect place to call home. (The Robinson Family: Calum, Joey, Lyla, Lucy & Isabella)

JENNA LOVING

PROTECTING REAL ESTATE AGENTS,
ONE NOTIFICATION AT A TIME!

PHOTOGRAPHY BY KRISTI HARRIS
WRITTEN BY ELIZABETH MCCABE

SOMETHING HAD TO CHANGE. TIRED OF SEEING REAL ESTATE AGENTS BEING VICTIMS OF CRIME, I DECIDED TO BE PROACTIVE.

“The best incident is the one that is avoided,” says Jenna Loving, a REALTOR® at Sotheby’s International Realty. Violent attacks are far too common in real estate with real estate agents being kidnapped, held for ransom, or even murdered. It’s also close to home. Three years ago, a real estate agent was brutally attacked at a showing and tragically lost her unborn baby. Jenna knew things needed to change, especially after she had her own scare.

“There was also a gentleman who reached out to me and wanted to see listings,” she recalls. When he only wanted to see vacant houses, she grew uneasy. “He wanted million-dollar-plus listings and had eight kids, but he could only name six of his kids.” He also claimed he had an all-cash offer. A woman of wisdom and discernment, Jenna knew something didn’t feel right. She trusted her instincts.

What happened next?

“Another agent walked by me the day after (at the brokerage) and was going to show listings to the same man,” she says. “I said, ‘I don’t think this is a good idea.’” The agent listened to her warning. “Thank you for telling me,” she said. That’s when Jenna realized she had a voice to prevent future tragedies.

It was a lightbulb moment for Jenna. Potential criminals just go down the list until they find someone who agrees to an appointment. “They are looking for an opportunity,” says Jenna. Something had to change. Tired of seeing real estate agents being victims of crime, she decided to be proactive.

Agent Alert Pro: A Game-Changer in REALTOR® Safety
A woman of action, Jenna refused to stand by while real estate agents remained vulnerable. In February 2025, she launched Agent Alert Pro, a groundbreaking safety platform designed specifically for licensed agents.

“It’s like a neighborhood watch for REALTORS®,” she explains. “Or an Amber Alert system, but for real estate professionals. If an agent logs an uneasy interaction, others in the area receive a notification. This way, predators can’t just move down the list until they find a willing agent.”

Unlike self-defense measures that are reactive, Agent Alert Pro is a proactive solution. The app allows real estate agents to rate interactions on a safety scale from 1 to 5, helping others gauge potential threats. It also features a national search function, ensuring that suspicious individuals don’t go unnoticed as they cross state lines.

“This isn’t just about personal safety,” Jenna emphasizes. “It’s about stopping crimes before they happen. The more agents use it, the stronger our community becomes.”

The Road Ahead
Since its launch in Arizona, Agent Alert Pro has been steadily expanding across the U.S. Jenna aims to have the service available nationwide by mid-year.

DON'T DELAY!
GET AGENT ALERT PRO ON THE APP STORE TODAY.

Real estate agents have been incredibly receptive. “Every agent I talk to says the same thing: ‘I can’t believe this doesn’t exist already,’” says Jenna.

Beyond safety alerts, Agent Alert Pro also tackles real estate scams, such as fraudulent property sales and deed fraud. “It’s not just about protecting agents,” Jenna explains. “It’s about protecting clients, transactions, and the integrity of our industry.” Her app has even been featured on local news, bringing awareness to the need for safety.

A Passion Fueled by Experience

Just as Jenna excels in protecting other real estate agents, she also excels in her career. Her strong entrepreneurial drive stems from her diverse background. Before real estate, she worked in sales, marketing, and administration. She even co-owned two Anytime Fitness gyms with her husband, balancing business ownership with raising three children.

“We had zero experience in running a gym,” she laughs. “But we figured it out. Our employees became family, and when we eventually sold the gyms, we were proud that we could keep jobs intact.”

Being on her own since she was 16, Jenna has faced challenges that have shaped who she is today. Life has never been without its obstacles, but she has always found strength and resilience, learning how to navigate the ups and downs with grace and determination. Overcoming adversity has become a defining part of her journey, and she has always emerged stronger on the other side.

Today, she is extremely proud of the family she and her husband have built over their 25 years together. They share the joy of their wonderful children and grandchildren, who bring so much light into their lives. Two of their children work alongside Jenna in real estate and are also integral to the future growth and success of Agent Alert Pro. Their family is a source of support and love as they continue to navigate life’s changes together, stronger than ever.

“Everything happens for a reason,” she says. “There is a plan, and if you listen to your instincts, you’ll find your path.” She couldn’t be happier about where she is today, making a difference for others in the process.

A Mission That Matters

Jenna is on a mission to transform real estate safety. Through Agent Alert Pro, she is building a community where agents look out for each other and take proactive steps to prevent crime.

There is no substitute for safety. “If we work together, we can stop these tragedies before they happen.”

With her drive and determination, Jenna Loving is proving that one voice, one alert, and one proactive step can change the future of real estate safety.

Sherri Vis

Trusting Divine Timing

WRITTEN BY JESS WELLAR • PHOTOGRAPHY BY JACQUELYNN BUCK

“My entire life I said I wanted to move somewhere where I could wear Birkenstocks year-round,” begins Sherri Vis with a laugh. “Then in the same year, my husband and I were both suddenly downsized from our jobs. If I was looking for a sign to move, that was the equivalent of an airport runway with flashing lights! Our situation was equally scary and freeing at the same time.”

It was that unexpected turn of events that ultimately led Sherri and her husband, Ken, to pack up their lives in Michigan, rent a U-Haul, and head west to Tucson on the last day of summer in 2018.

“My husband looked into three states that needed pharmacists, but we could not stop thinking about Arizona,” Sherri recalls. “One of my favorite private banking clients had lived in Tucson, and she adored it. I figured if she loved it that much, I probably would too.”

Her instincts were right. Not only did Sherri fall in love with Tucson, but she also found a new passion—one that would catapult her to become one of the area’s top-performing REALTORS®.

A Natural Fit

There’s no question that Sherri’s 26-year career in the financial sector prepared her for success in ways she never expected. Growing up in Grand Haven, Michigan, Sherri earned a master’s degree in finance and started as a bank teller. She eventually worked her way up to branch manager, then transitioned into mortgage lending, and eventually managed high-net-worth clients in a private banking trust department. The extensive knowledge she gained through those roles became invaluable when she pivoted to real estate.

“It was a natural fit because I had been in the mortgage industry for 15 years,” Sherri affirms. “I had corrected hundreds of offers, so I knew how to write a solid contract. I knew appraisals, title work, and the construction process from my lending days. It all just clicked.”

One significant early experience in her banking career taught her the importance of paying attention to details.

“My first construction loan was a spec home for a builder who mistakenly poured the foundation on three lots after some neighborhood kids moved the lot stakes,” Sherri recalls. “The builder had to pay for the mistake, but it taught me a valuable lesson—details matter, and always verify.”

Redfin Opportunity Knocks

Despite her knowledge and experience, getting started in a new city still wasn’t easy. “When I moved to Tucson, I didn’t know anyone,” Sherri remembers. “I held open houses, worked at another brokerage, and hustled to gain traction, but I only wrote one contract...and that was for my own house!”

Just when frustration started to set in, Sherri applied to Redfin and was accepted. From there, things took off. “My broker, Kristi Penrod, was a tremendous help,” Sherri acknowledges gratefully. “And so were fellow agents Deborah Quadt and Sara Fischer. All rockstar women who really took the time to train me.”

Today, Sherri has achieved nearly $90 million in career sales, including $22.2 million in 2024 alone. She’s also a proud member of Redfin’s Top Producer Council and a three-time Redfin

Sherri and Ken in Florence, Italy

*I will always root for education,
helping others,
and following your gut.”*

President’s Club winner, an achievement that earned her trips to Rome, Paris, and an upcoming trip to Hawaii later this November.

“I’m honored to be a part of the agents helping craft Redfin’s future,” Sherri beams. “I think Redfin’s recent partnership with Rocket Mortgage is a fantastic pairing, and I’m glad our CEO is staying on. Given my mortgage background, I see great synergy ahead!”

Working Hard While Having Fun

Sherri’s work ethic has always been a key driver of her success, but she’s quick to point out that her fun side is her secret sauce. “When I was a branch manager at the bank, my staff used to say I lived on the corner of Wall Street and Wonderland,” Sherri smiles. “I work hard, but I always make sure we have fun along the way!”

“Our banking center was the number one branch for hitting goals, but I told my staff that meant nothing if we were not helping the branch performing the worst, so we started trading staff back and forth between offices until their numbers improved.”

That positive energy and willingness to bring others along for the ride-up has carried over into Sherri’s real estate career as well. She has mentored several agents at Redfin since she first started, and is open to the possibility of a few more if they have the right mindset. “I will always root for education, helping others, and following your gut,” she affirms.

Embracing Tucson

When Sherri isn’t busy with work, you’ll likely find her recharging in her favorite spot: Catalina State Park. “There’s a bench there that I love to sit on to ponder and reflect,” she shares.

Sherri with her parents in the Rincon
Mountains on a

“Depending on the season, there’s even water running through the park. I’ve done plenty of soul-searching on that mountain.”

Ken has since retired from pharmacy life and obtained his own real estate license to help Sherri keep up with her busy schedule. The couple also find joy in plenty of creative outlets. “We especially love building Legos together,” Sherri elaborates. “We’ll watch Lego Masters on TV to unwind at night and focus our minds on something fun before bed.”

With an exciting year ahead—including travel to Hawaii and Mexico—Sherri continues to embrace life’s unexpected twists and turns with open arms. She recently discovered a love of Pilates and remains passionate about her involvement in the Southern Arizona Community Foundation.

In hindsight, Sherri sees every setback as part of a bigger plan, and she’s grateful to have embraced change in her second act.

“I’ve learned not to force solutions,” Sherri concludes. “Slowing down and focusing on self-care has been so important for me. I’ve been divinely held and blessed, and I trust that what’s meant for me will always find me—and that belief has never steered me wrong.”
